Where home feels like a weekend escape. Tucked into an unexpectedly private setting, this distinctive five-bedroom, five-bathroom home offers a lifestyle rarely found this close to everything. A dramatic living room with soaring beamed ceilings and walls of windows creates an unforgettable first impression, while the open kitchen and dining area provide an effortless gathering space for everyday living and entertaining, directly opening to the deck and nature. With five bedrooms, five full bathrooms, and three en-suite bedrooms, the home offers exceptional flexibility for modern living. The walk-out lower level completes with a bedroom, full bath, and recreation room, creates a private retreat ideal for extended guests, an au pair, a work-from-home suite, or simply additional space to spread out. An uncommon opportunity, the property offers access to both the White Plains and Scarsdale school systems while benefiting from White Plains property taxes, providing unique flexibility rarely available in the area. Beyond the home itself, the landscape unfolds in layers. The deck and side lawn lead to a terraced orchard and vegetable garden featuring peach, apple, fig, and Chinese chestnut trees. Beyond the cultivated gardens, a stream winds through the property before giving way to an additional wooded parcel backing into Saxon Woods Park, creating a rare sense of privacy, exploration, and connection to nature. This is a home where fruit is picked from your own trees, gardens become part of daily life, and ordinary afternoons can feel a little like a getaway. This is a home designed not only for living, but for gathering, exploring, and creating the kind of memories that are rare. A retreat woven into everyday life.
