At 355 Grace Church Street, generous proportions and thoughtful details come together in a home that feels as welcoming as it is elegant. Impeccably maintained and in pristine condition, this custom-built stone-and-shingle Center Hall Colonial offers seven bedrooms, seven full baths, ten-foot ceilings, five masonry fireplaces, and custom millwork throughout, paired with an expansive, level backyard. A double-height foyer and dramatic open staircase set the tone. The formal living room features a fireplace, while the elegant dining room connects to a butler's pantry. The eat-in kitchen is appointed with top-of-the-line appliances, a large marble island, and a walk-in pantry. Just beyond, an inviting family room with custom millwork opens through French doors to the patio. A wood-paneled office with a custom wine closet offers a distinctive place to work or unwind. A first-floor nanny or in-law suite with a full bath, a mudroom with a side entrance, and a secondary staircase add everyday flexibility. Upstairs, the spacious primary suite features a fireplace, two walk-in closets, and an en-suite bath with dual vanities, a steam shower, and a soaking tub. Three additional bedrooms each have an en-suite bath, while a fifth is arranged as a private guest suite with its own living space and bath. The completely renovated third floor provides additional living space and a large bedroom with an en-suite bath. Outside, the expansive backyard is made for entertaining, with a slate patio, built-in barbecue and pergola with an outdoor fireplace. A finished basement, two-car garage and whole-house generator complete the offering. With pristine interiors, picture-perfect grounds, and a prime location near downtown Rye, 355 Grace Church Street delivers on every front.
